

THE TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME, year C

Responsorial psalm: "Praise the Lord who lifts up the poor."

For our faith to be truly meaningful, it must engage with our daily lives. Today, God challenges us to reflect on our relationships with others and how we handle our material possessions. Remember, actions like deception, exploitation, and greed never go unnoticed and will lead to consequences. We are called to take responsibility for our stewardship: "Give an account of your management." We still have the opportunity to connect with our neighbors and make a positive impact. By showing mercy and kindness to others, we open the door to receive God's mercy in return.
