

THE TWENTY-SEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME Year "A"

Responsorial Psalm: "The vineyard of the Lord is the house of Israel."

The God of peace is with those who put into practice all that they have learned, received, heard, and seen from the disciples of the Lord, through whom they received the Good News of God concerning Jesus Christ, the Son of God. A disciple of Jesus is one who keeps His teaching and does the will of the Father in Heaven—one who thinks about and considers, and then does and carries out, all that is good, pleasing to God, and perfect. A disciple of Jesus is both a hearer and a doer of the Word. Only such a person enjoys the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding and guards the heart and thoughts in Christ Jesus. Justified by faith, we have peace with God and need not worry or be anxious about anything, because the Father knows what we need and gives us everything abundantly and without reproach, for He is good.

Catechesis #2 (100)

Today's Topic: "The Liturgy as the Work of the Holy Trinity"

In this week's catechesis, you will find answers to these and other questions:

- What is apostolic succession, and what role does the Sacrament of Holy Orders play in the Church's uninterrupted celebration of the liturgy?
- In what ways is Christ present in the liturgy, particularly in the Eucharist, the sacraments, the Word of God, and the prayer of the gathered Church?
